Quality Statements to Guide Melanoma Diagnosis and Treatment in NZ | Review in progress

Over July and August 2022, the National Melanoma Working Group will review the Quality Statements to ensure they continue to reflect latest research and best practice.

The updated Quality Statements and a summary of changes made will be communicated to MelNet members and the wider sector following the completion of the review.

You can find out more about the review and the Quality Statements on the MelNet website.

International melanoma trial | MelMarT-II

The MelMarT-II trial is gathering melanoma experts from around the world, including New Zealand, to contribute results from 3,000 patients to determine the optimal surgical excision margin for melanoma of the skin. The trial, led by Melanoma and Skin Cancer Trials, has already enrolled over 600 patients at 33 hospitals in seven different countries, and a recent agreement with the SWOG Cancer Research Network will allow for approximately 50 more sites across the USA.
